Darling, Precious Hubby, mine: —

Although I rec'd your wonderful letters to-day, I have not had the chance to really enjoy them. I had to just read them there quickly as Mr. Swallow is not in to-day. He is laid up with a swollen foot. I shall be down to-morrow or if he does not come in Thursday — I'm mad worry! Our position is not going to stay any longer. I quit Wednesday night the 30th of April. Dear, you can rest assured no little thing like that is going to prevent me from starting on May 8th. Oh Lord! I do hope & pray, that nothing prevents a clean leaving on the 8th. No matter how I try, no matter how I work to have things come out easily & smoothly at the end they seem do muddle up beautifully. Now, Mr. Swallow has to get sick. I have hopes of his coming in to-morrow, though and if he doesn't — why — I just quit, that's all!

Dear, Mam'selle's cut is improving wonderfully. She was out of bed for about 2½ hours during the afternoon. To-day, too, she expects that she will be all laced up. Of course she's terribly weak, but that will soon be over. She is nervous, as you know before a cut is; people dying and crying etc. but since her heart is strong, everything looks encouraging. I do hope next Saturday sees her home. Mean, you can write to Mr. Kelly immediately if you want as by the time you get and answer this, mom will be ~~hope~~ home. Write to Mr. Catherine Kel

I am going to get something nice for her, soon.
As to mom's going away, she says she would rather go home for a week first and then see what's what. I am sure she won't want to go away, and so, perhaps home is best for her, after all, if only she will take things easy. Everything, dear, will be alright, so don't worry.

I'm terribly busy now, love, so shall close with all my love, hugs & kisses. Oh, hurry, dear, when I come down —— happy, love!

Everlasting
Frances.
